It is stated that the two letters from the Crar delivered by the Russian General Richter to the King of Prussia and the Emperor of Austria, are not identical in their contents. The letter to the King of Prussia is said to be expressed in more cordial terms than that to the Emperor of Austria, which is more exclusively of a formal character. Neither of the communications contains any offer of mediation: both merely express a desire for the preservation of peace. The Nord Deutsche Zeitung states that the situation has not changed, and that the armaments are still going on. The Debatte states that the Russian General Richter will shortly leave for St. Petersburg, with an autograph letter blortly leave for St. Petersburg, with an autograph letter from the Emperor, in reply to the letter of the Czar. It is stated that Prussia's reply to the Austrian Note has created an extremely unfacorable impression in Geotynaem circles of Vienna. The following is the text:

Brain Note Haron von Werther, the Prussian Minister at Vienna, has delivered the following to Count Memberff, in reply to the Austrian note of the 31st ult.:

the wish therein expressed, to his Majesty the King, his most gracious Severeign, and with reference thereto the undersagned is bestructed to address to your Excellency the following observations:

"The lears of danger to the preservation of peace have aricen solely from the fact that Austria, without any apparent soars, has begun, since the 36th of last month, to push forward considerable armed forces in a threatening manner toward the Prassian frontier.

"The Imperial Government has given no explanation respecting its motives for this strange proceeding; for the statement that the apprehensions of the Jewish inhabitants had rendered those armaments necessary is as irreconcilable with the extent of the latter as it is with the locality at which the assembled reinforcements are stationed, namely, on the Saxon and Prassian frontier, where the security of the Jewis has never been endangered.

"Had Austria, like Prussio, believed herself to be threatened, imply tecrainly have been expected, after the sentiments expressed in Count Karely's note, that the Cabinet of Vienna, while referring to Ari. If of the Federal Pact, would have used known to the Federal Dict, or at least to the Prussion Government, the facts which appeared to Austria to be of a threatening nature. Instead of that, no to the present time there has been no endeavor to justify the pretended defensive character of the Austrian armaments by specifying any signs of a danger ogainst which defensive measures should be directed. The secreey with which the Austrian armaments have been aerrounded, and the effort to make their well knew extent appear in the eyes of the Prussian Government had impression respecting them—namely, that the Leperial troops on the northern frontier of Austria, which have been daily reclafered during the natural impression respecting them—namely, that the Leperial troops on the northern frontier of Austrian Government endeavor to justing them—namely, that the Leperial troops on the Bolemlan frontier—the path of the Frussian Fronti

It is rumored that a dispatch has just been sent to Count Karoby, the Austrian representative at Berlin, in reply to the last note of Count Bismark. Austria, it is stated, reticrates the demand contained in her note of the 31st ult., and expresses the hope that Prossia will give explanations as unreserved relative to the meaning of her warlike preparations as those afforded by Austria with regard to the presenteded centralization of her troops.

The Times Vienna correspondent says: "Last Saturday Austria sent a categorical dispatch to Berlin, in which Count Bismark is charged with having declaced were with Austria to be incritable, and it affirmed that the Austria Austria to be encarried by that declaration. Count Bismark is also charged with intriguing in Italy against Austria. The Imperial Government requires the demoralization of the Prussian army.

The Vienna Debate states that Austria is about to decline continuing negotiations with Prussia until the latter power ceases to mobilize her troops.

The Presse says the Austrian reply to the last Prussian note partook of the character of an ultimatum, reproaching Prussia with the provocative language of her dispatches, and with her intrigues with Italy. In the event of an unsatisfactory reply Austria would immediately bring forward a motion in the Federal Diet for placing the Federal Army on a war footing.

The Federal Diet.

An extraordinary sitting of the Federal Diet was convened on April 9, at the request of Prussia, who, it is expected, will bring forward a proposition for the assembling of a German Parliament.

At the special sitting the Prussian representative made the following propositions:

1. That an assembly should be convened of members directly elected throughout Germany by universal suffrage, in order to receive proposals, to be laid before the German Governments, for a reform of the Federal Constitution.

II. That negotiations should in the meantime take place between the various Governments to settle the above proposals. A motion brought forward by the Austrian representative, as President of the Diet, demanding the immediate communication to the Federal Governments of the Prussian motion, was agreed to.

Dr. Swindurne—I had to be here on Friday afternoon at a meeting of the Board of Eroise, and for that reason could not go down to Quarantine with the Committee, but I supposed the Committee was appointed for the purpose of ascertalning the facts. The Commissioners have a boat but it was eigaged in farnishing applies for the hospital ship. The manner of the transferred it eak is the one that has been made use of since 1859, and no other is possible. How else can they be transferred: You can't put them on a sofa; they must be lowered down from the vessel and taken away in boats.

Dr. Stoxe—I have nothing to say shout the management of affairs at Quarantine. A tug might have been run slongisle of the ship and some humanity used in the transfer. A poor devil of a captain comes here and is fettered by Quarantine regulations so that he can do nothing, and yet there is no one near to give him assistance. When the transfer of the sick from his ship takes place, they are placed in a sitting posture for three-quarters of an hour. Why that is the way to kill patients, not to cure them. I do not blame any one for this, but some one is to blame nevertheless.

Dr. SWINBURKE—All the provisions were carried out that could be; and for a member of the Sanitary Committee to come here and talk of running a tug alongside of a ship is proposterous and nonsensical. You could not protect the public health, but to injure some one of the guarantine officers. A tug could not get alongside of a ship—it is all nonsense." GRYLBRUN, in this city no arrangement have been made by the authorities for the removal of swill and garbage. As it has bereafter been of use to persons who have kept pins in the quadric of the city, they have called at the dwellings for it. Recently, very many of these persons have been induced, from values considerations, to dispose of their swine, and new have no use for such refuse material. Our citizens have how way of disposing of it. Those who have been according to those it through the variant lots are now arrested, some are burning it, and complaints are made at this office that it is buried in the years in the rear of the dwellings. This, which seems at first, perhaps, a matter of small moment, affects every dwelling; and among the poor, and those occipying confliction means the free free in the result of the city, becomes at once a disgusting nuisance, and a source of disease. This is a subject that requires the immediate attention of the Bard.

A CANAUD.-The statement in the afternoon papers that a cardiffer had probably been attributed in the statics of the New-Haven Railread Company, at the councer of Feorti-ave, and Furty-second st., on Monday evening, preses to be a canard. The tune who was missing, and supposed to have been mardered was mustly engaged in diving his teem all day yesterday, and exceedingly actorished at the fact of his death having been reported.
